German, American Teens

Same, Mathis Decides

By Jackie Thomas

"Teenagers in Germany and America are basically the same," concludes German Exchange Student Matthias Gutwinkel, who leaves for his home in Esslingen tomorrow after two months here.

He observes, however, that boy-girl relationships at U-High are more natural and relaxed than at his school, the Neunzehnlichlesches Gymnasium.

What Matthias saw of Chicago, especially the skyscrapers, impressed him. Esslingen has a population of 80,000 compared to metropolitan Chicago's 7 million. Nearby Stuttgart, with more than 400,000 people, "is more like Chicago," Matthias says, "but minus the tall buildings.

Comparing his school to U-High, Matthias found U-High students spending more time away from school and more involved with school-based social activities.

Though U-High students often characterize themselves as apathetic, Matthias found them "school spirited" compared to his classmates at home.

U-High will lose another foreign visitor Friday when Roberta Laties departs for her home in Buenos Aires.

Roberta, 15, is on summer vacation and has been here two weeks visiting relatives. Her Chicago Cristoforo Colombo is a coeducational Italian institution. Roberta will be a senior in the fall.

Classes meet 6 days a week but Roberta has classes only in the morning.

"U-High is much less formal," she observes, adding that everyone wears a uniform at her school.

Shorties

ALL National Merit semifinalists have become finalists. Scholarship winners will be notified in late March. Finalists are Lee Turkevich, Sam Shulman, David Boorstin, Bill Black, Phil Burstein, Paul Stamler, Len Bogard and Debbie Gross. All Illinois State scholarship winners have won to the final. They are Len Bogard, Sandra Fricker, Philip Burstein, Eugene Chu, Stephen Herbst and Judy Savage.

TWENTY-THREE U-Highers deporred Friday for a five-day trip to Washington, D.C. Mr. Herbert Pearson and Miss Fugnolle Nash will chaperon the group, which will also visit historical areas near the capital.

TENNESSEE WILLIAMS' "The Glass Menagerie" will be produced this spring by a student drama group. Barry Levine will direct.

JEAN ANGUILLAL's "The Lark" has been chosen for the senior play, May 19-20 in the Low School auditorium.

PARENTS' association will sponsor two films Saturdays in Judd 126. They are "Adventures of Huckelberry Finn," April 1, and "Merry Andrew," April 8. Admission will be 25 cents.

SENIORS have approached Principal Philip Montag about establishing a senior lounge and dropping spring finals for seniors.

About 25 U-High families are needed to house exchange students from Clayton (Mo.) high school.

April 8-16, announces Mr. Wayne Brazer, faculty representative for the program.

Families interested in having a Clayton student as their guest can contact him at extension 2513.

Thirteen U-Highers leave Saturday for their part of the program, spending spring vacation in Clayton.

Guests and hosts here, as at Clayton, will be matched according to interests and activities, Mr. Brazer says. While in Chicago, the Clayton students and their faculty representative will observe U-High classes and school life and tour the city.

U-Highers going to Clayton include Gerald Schaffner, Lorna Sul- tan, David Snyder, Carl Becker, Beth Paller, Lynda Herman, Sar- ah Lincolni, Jennei Zesmier, Pearl Griffin, Gloria Rogers, Mike Steere, Claudia Hightough and Cindy Berman.

According to a letter to the U-High Exchange Chairman Cliff Librach, the schedule "will include possibly a tour of a major automobile construction plant, a play, a movie, a dinner at someone's house with whom you are not exchanging, a tour of St. Louis and Clayton, and a viewing of the Mississippi River and the Gateway Arch, the nation's tallest monument.

"This, of course, is only the extracurricular activity list. You will also be invited to observe classes, a Student Council meeting, a pep assembly and the other activities of Clayton high school."

A conservative Republican community of 18,000 people, Clayton was the only St. Louis suburb which Barry Goldwater carried in the 1964 presidential election. There is no formal segregation, but it is virtually impossible for a Negro to obtain a house in the area, Clif- ford says.

A small school of 750 enrollment, Clayton high reflects the stability of the community, every resident owns their homes. A pros- perous business community makes quality education possible at a low tax rate. Clayton is the seat of St. Louis County.

A brochure informs that the school day consists of seven 55 -minute periods. Classes are small, ranging from 14-26 students. The faculty of 60 members includes five professionally-trained counselors.

Clayton students are grouped ac- cording to educational interests and abilities. There are basic, regular and honor sections in all required academic courses.

Eighty-nine percent of Clayton's graduates go on to college each year.

Lab Schools Director Francis V. Lloyd Jr., was superintendent of the Clayton district before coming here.

Psychology Course

Plan Gets Dropped

-Locked Sponsor

Lack of department sponsorship has resulted in dropping of a pro- posed psychology course for jun- iors and seniors, according to Principal Philip Montag.

The course, never officially ap- proved, was planned out of the principal's office.

Mr. Montag said that there was "strong faculty opinion that it should be sponsored by some de- partment, such as guidance.

Mr. MONTAG said he "fully con- curred with the faculty opinion."

The psychology course was to have been offered to juniors and seniors in the spring quarter if enough academically-qualified stu- dents could be found, according to Mr. Montag.

The course was planned by two University graduate students, Lytle Spencer and Stuart Piser, who were interested in finding out if a college-type psychology course could ef- fectively serve high school stu- dents. They are working with Prof. Eugene Gendlin of the University psychology department.

THE COURSE was to have been an experimental program in group process and analysis of personal behavior, according to a prospectus circulated at a meeting for interested students February 22.

It was modeled after a course developed at Harvard university and offered to undergraduates there.

Day-to-day activities of the class were to be determined by its mem- bers rather than the teachers. The course was to have been graded on a pass-fail basis. The only formal assignments were three papers on events relevant to the development of the group and readings from a prescribed list of books and articles on psychology.

Special In This Issue

To help U-Highers with their special stories and prom and college fashion planning, this issue of Midway presents special stories and advertising. Be sure to read the messages from the firms who made this edition possible.

CHECKING attendance reports from teachers, Assistants Rich- ard Zern and Roy Henderson prepare the daily absence list with Activities Secretary Alverson Joe.
Youth's Other War: Fight For Free Press Amid Censorship

In times of war it is the young who are called to bear arms, to protect democracy. Yet the same generation often is unaware of the necessity to protect democracy on its own soil.

In its Freedom of Information report for 1966, issued November 1, Sigma Delta Chi, a major fraternity of journalists, criticizes the Johnson Administration for maintaining "an atmosphere of censorship and secrecy.

Though the report cites the passage of federal open records law as a significant achievement in the continuous struggle to maintain a free press, it warns that the law, effective next July 4, "must be viewed as only a potential bright spot until the press has had time to examine how it is administered by the Johnson Administration.

Time and again the President and his staff have sought to deny the press information for the public. The report cites these documented proofs:

- President Johnson ended the regular, open, televised press conferences that held in the White House as early as December 1964. After that, they were held only rarely, usually when he had prepared a speech in advance or when an answer was involved. In such cases, Johnson often took the opportunity to quiz members of the press individually.

- In a directive issued in February, Johnson ordered federal agencies to submit all press releases to the White House for review if the administration feared they could cause trouble. There was immediate congressional opposition to this interference in the freedom of the press.

- Every year the Pentagon issues a press release making claims to fabulous savings, which Secretary Robert McNamara claimed saved $8.5 billion in fiscal 1965 and more than $6 million in the 3 years ending June 30, 1966, through his muchpublicized cost reduction program. Reporters have no practical method of challenging these claims.

- A House subcommittee which investigated the claimed savings in July, however, concluded that only about a third could be "justified and documented.

- Subcommittee members added that key documents supporting their conclusions had been "stamped secret" and hidden from the public and "a skeptic might question whether the notations in such a situation promote or protect the national defense or combat the cold war with the Soviet Union.

- A blackbox has been clamped on details of the scenario and contract for President Johnson's biographical film, produced recently by the U.S. Information Agency. No security information is involved.

The pen is as mighty as the sword, and a lot safer. The battle in Viet Nam has so involved supporters and detractors it has obscured an essential campaign issue: the use of marijuana on the campus. Though numerous journalists, and her advisor, appeared to testify as to the tradition of protecting sources, the Johnson Administrationipmented and punished her.

"As is usually the case," Sigma Delta Chi commented, "a local police action against a group of students is enough to turn the Johnson's proposal for a draft lottery.

Junior Cal Melamed feels that the present draft system is unfair. He suggests four year military service for all boys directly after high school, a system which Israel employs.

"However," Cal said, "each man should have a choice between regular military service and working in a government organization like the Peace Corps or VIETNAM.

PETER KOVLER, a sophomore, believes that the present draft system is unfair. "Universal military service right after high school with an alternative of fighting would be better," Mike said.

Steve Lewontin, a junior, added: "If the present system is wrong, something like a lottery would be better, but they should make it easier for a conscientious objector to get out of fighting. I know I wouldn't go into the Army under any circumstances, and I'm sure there are many people who feel the same way I do.""}

U-High Boys Hold Varied Views On Draft

By Scott Davis

From approval to disagreement to outright rejection, U-High boys have one thing in common: a random survey indicates their ideas take on new import in the light of the Administration's proposal for a draft lottery.

Junior Cal Melamed feels that the present draft system is unfair. He suggests four year military service for all boys directly after high school, a system which Israel employs.

"However," Cal said, "each man should have a choice between regular military service and working in a government organization like the Peace Corps or VIETNAM.

PETER KOVLER, a sophomore, believes that the present draft system is unfair. "Universal military service right after high school with an alternative of fighting would be better," Mike said.

Steve Lewontin, a junior, added: "If the present system is wrong, something like a lottery would be better, but they should make it easier for a conscientious objector to get out of fighting. I know I wouldn't go into the Army under any circumstances, and I'm sure there are many people who feel the same way I do."

And The Beat Goes On

"What?"

"A tile roof. The theme of the party is 'Cat on a Blue Tin Roof.'"

"No it isn't. It's the moon. The theme of the party is 'Moon River.'"

"That was the theme of the last party."

"Oh.

"It doesn't make any difference.

All the parties are the same anyway.

Just a lot of dancing, some corps entertainment and a few bakes.

"Oh, yes. I wish they'd have more movie parties or trips or even hay rides."

"Who plans these parties any way?"

"The Student Union."

"Isn't that run by a clique?"

"No, they're just the only ones who want to bother with these parties."

"Well. It's too bad we can't have better parties."

LILL BRADBURY, fire chief in Eugene Ionesco's "The Bald Soprano," raises his arm to settle an argument between Mr. Smith, played by Barry Levine, the World, and Mrs. Smith, Sarah Gottlieb.

Argument finally was compromised with the conclusion that, when a doorbell rings, there may be someone there and then again there may not.

FRANCIS WHITE, a studio school girl, complains of a toothache as the Mad Master, James Moulton, continues his lecture in Ionesco's "The Lesson."

The two plays were among four theater-of-the-absurd productions presented by Drama Workshop March 1-4.

Enthusiastic Audiences Prove 'Absurd' Plays Worth Effort

By Judy Kahn

Drama Workshop members may have found producing theater-of-the-absurd plays a difficult challenge, but the laughing, cheering and sometimes even fighting audiences indicated all the hard work, despite initial reluctance to attempt the genre, worth the effort.

Bedford Tower resonated with enthusiastic audience re action to "The Lesson" March 1-4 as the dramatists successfully brought moments of comedy and tragedy to an interested audience. So liberal was the audience with its reactions that one freshman girl yelled out at a dramatic moment, "See, I told you he would do it."

"THE BALD SOPRANO" and "The Lesson" by Eugene Ionesco, "The Dumb Waiter" by Harold Pinter and "The Sandbox" by Ed Ward Albee gave U-Highers a fine chance to view the work of three theater-of-the-absurd masters.

"The Sandbox" featured Amy Wright as an amusing grandma. She looked and acted old, scrunched so everyone would know what she thought of "Mommy," Bibi Lewison.

Mommy tried to manage Grand­ma's life in the play, as well as that of Daddy, Tom Kahn, Mat Sadel as a dumb but muscular young man clad in a swimsuit caused giggles from the girls in the audience each time he flexed his muscles.

"THE SANDBOX" created the relief needed after "The Lesson." James Moulton was convincing as an old man. His friends could hardly recognize him, except when silver particles (makeup) flew from his hair whenever he became enraged.

Francis White effectively played a determined yet ignorant school girl.

The play became too tedious for the audience during one long scene. Several people became drowsy or complained of headaches.

Constant laughter during "The Bald Soprano" typified the spirit of the play. Bill Bradbury's long, complicated speech on a story about relatives received long applause.

SARAH GOTTLIEB, Barry Le­vine, Jamie Lewiston and Mary Davis maintained the humorous pace as they portrayed typically English couples who weren't typi­cally English.

Tongue twisters at the play's end seemed to annoy, rather than amuse, the audience.

"The Dumb Waiter" dealt with two hired killers awaiting their master's return. Michael Rosenberg was a swallow any Way he came.

"The Waiter" was played by David Kranz, as well as two sons who worked for their father.

Photos by Staney
New Science Course To Deal With Energy

"Matter, Energy, Radiation and Man," a science course, will be offered next year.

Physics Teacher Bryan Swan says the course will "attempt to study our physical environment through man's place in it, as well as properties of matter, energy, radiation and radioactive materials, electrical energy, sound and light."

"Because it is less mathematical than Physical Science I, perhaps the assistants will want to take it," he says.

JUNIORS will be "Dancing in the Street" at their last pre-prom party, 8-11 p.m., Friday, March 31, in the cafeteria, reports Class President Carl Berezewski, right. Right will be prom decorations planned by Ross Anderson and Bobbie Green.

U-High Councilmen Visit Niles West;
Find Student Government Different

Modification of the student's system and limitation of the powers of the Dean of Student's graduate assistants were announced by Principal Philip Montag at the March 2 Student Council meeting. The assistants no longer will patrol the halls or lunchroom or hand out referral cards.

Minor violations will be the responsibility of Dean of Students John Thompson and all assistants will continue to supervise study halls.

Attendance changes still are being formulated.

Bill Bradbury, moderater of the first Laboratory Mutants forum, "Is U-High A Police State," Feb. 22, feels that frank discussion of student objections to the assistants' power with Mr. Montag and Mr. Thompson influenced their decision to curtail the assistants' responsibilities.

Mr. Thompson agrees that the assistants are being given power which the Student Board rightly has.

"But my guide didn't even know where the lounges were," notes Carol Mau.

Shop Teacher Herbert Pearson, who accompanied the U-Highers, noted the status of the library as a place of privileged study. Mr. Pearson also noted that at Niles the principal's load is relieved by four assistants, one for each grade level.

"We could use that here," he says.

Most of the U-Highers agreed that Niles students appreciate their facilities, including senior lounges.

"But my guide didn't even know where the lounges were," notes Carol Mau.

Assistants Will No Longer Patrol Halls, Lunchroom

U-High, in its several planned programs. The Midway staff, in a Feb. 15 editorial, expressed concern that the assistants were being given power which the Student Board rightly has.
Bam! Pow! It's Girls At Play

Male cage stars can boast broken legs, sprained ankles and other ailments, but U-High's cagers can match those complaints with swindled knees, sprained thumbs and cracked noses. "Rough!" scoffed Fresh-Soph Cager Peter Kovler with a smile. "The girls' game is slower. At the end of the first quarter the score will be 4-2. It's just not the same," he observed.

"Maybe girls are just uncoordinated," offered Junior Alma Dean Kolb in explanation of her bruised finger. A member of the girls' varsity, she's missed two games because of the injury. "Long fingersails cause problems, too," adds Freshman Valerie Leopold.

Two Get Mention

Forewords John Wachtel and David Bloom made the honorable mention list in Independent School League Basketball All-Star voting. This year was the first in many that U-High was not represented on the All-Star team.

Mostly Sunny

Pep Club Lacks Student Support

By Jon Raven and Laury Hirsch

"Most people," charges Pep Club President Sharon Wang, "sign up so that 'Pep Club' will appear on their activities records." Although more than 100 U-Highers, mostly freshmen, showed up at the Pep club's first meeting this year, "active membership is far below that level," complains the president, herself new to U-High this year.

People who criticize Pep club for its inactivity and obscurity are too lazy to work themselves, Sharon says.

THE CLUB has been plagued with problems. Its big event, the Spirit Spree, was snowed out and could not be rescheduled. Buses were planned to take basketball fans to away games but had to be cancelled for lack of support. "Basketball is the only sport played at U-High, so we must center our activities around that season," Sharon says. The club was able to sell buttons and berth the school withpo ders, mostly freshmen, showed up at the Pep club's first meeting this year, "active membership is far below that level," complains the president, herself new to U-High this year.

PERSONALLY, we'd like to see how many members would show. A spirit crew at the first basketball game, with bus transportation.

Girl Cagers Finish One Of Best Seasons Ever

With "one of our best seasons ever," Coach Margaret Mates sums up the '67 girls cage season. Varsity squad ranked 5th in the state, 2 losses, while the junior varsity ended 7-2. Varsity girls whipped rival Franklin here February 27, 38-18. Fresh-soph won 26-7, Varsity Cagers defeated tough North Shore here February 21, 34-28, but the JV fell 12-18.

Girls Cage 'Murals Underway

Girls intramural basketball games began with a pre-freshman-senior game March 7 followed by sophomores against pre-freshmen March 9. Rest of the schedule remains indefinite.

Cage Manager Grads Graduate to 'Big 10'

By Jon Raven

When U-High Graduated Rick Stern, '64, became manager of the Soph-soph basketball Maroons in 1960, he little realized his future. In only 6 years later he would be manager of a "Big 10" team, the University of Michigan Wolverines.

At U-High, Rick was varsity cage and soccer manager and Midway sports editor.

EXPLAINING HIS interests, Rick says, "Although I am not athletically endowed, I was quite interested in sports, so I chose to involve myself in managing and writing about sports.

His college career has paralleled his high school saga. Last fall Rick was one of several assistant managers of the Michigan hoop stars. A reshuffling resulted in his being named head manager of the team.

His appointment as associate editor of the Michigan Daily has just been announced. RICK, a psychology major at Michigan, says that as a manager he often finds himself playing the "buffer between the players and coach, team psychologist and, at times, a referee."

"But," he adds, "I really don't mind it. After all, the boys need some relief off their anxiety off the court."

That Rick traveled more than 7,000 miles over a 3-month period to and from school, is another idea.

"I don't think the Pep club does anything worthwhile," claims Sophomore Mi mi Stern, one of its critics. She believes the club should devote its attention to all sports, not just basketball.

Mimi is a rival of Pep Club. She plans to run for the girls cage team and an enthustiast for most girls sports. Volleyball, badminton, softball and swimming are part of her plans, provided all these teams can be formed.

Lack of support for all sports at U-High is a major problem, she believes. "People don't want to find time for sports," she says.

SPRING VACATION signals the close indoor sport, but scenes like this will be remembered by participants and fans. Douglas Tove, left, David Orden and Jim Stelnbock jump through a hoop in preparation for the Oak Park relay championships March 25. They are in hopes of top place.

Cage Manager Grads Graduate to 'Big 10'

By Jon Raven

When U-High Graduated Rick Stern, '64, became manager of the Soph-soph basketball Maroons in 1960, he little realized his future. In only 6 years later he would be manager of a "Big 10" team, the University of Michigan Wolverines.

At U-High, Rick was varsity cage and soccer manager and Midway sports editor.

EXPLAINING HIS interests, Rick says, "Although I am not athletically endowed, I was quite interested in sports, so I chose to involve myself in managing and writing about sports.

His college career has paralleled his high school saga. Last fall Rick was one of several assistant managers of the Michigan hoop stars. A reshuffling resulted in his being named head manager of the team.

His appointment as associate editor of the Michigan Daily has just been announced. RICK, a psychology major at Michigan, says that as a manager he often finds himself playing the "buffer between the players and coach, team psychologist and, at times, a referee."

"But," he adds, "I really don't mind it. After all, the boys need some relief off their anxiety off the court."

That Rick traveled more than 7,000 miles over a 3-month period to and from school, is another idea.

"I don't think the Pep club does anything worthwhile," claims Sophomore Mi mi Stern, one of its critics. She believes the club should devote its attention to all sports, not just basketball.

Mimi is a rival of Pep Club. She plans to run for the girls cage team and an enthustiast for most girls sports. Volleyball, badminton, softball and swimming are part of her plans, provided all these teams can be formed.

Lack of support for all sports at U-High is a major problem, she believes. "People don't want to find time for sports," she says.

SPRING VACATION signals the close indoor sport, but scenes like this will be remembered by participants and fans. Douglas Tove, left, David Orden and Jim Stelnbock jump through a hoop in preparation for the Oak Park relay championships March 25. They are in hopes of top place.

SPORTS Roundup

"VARIOUS STUdENTS told her last but nevertheless lost the student-faculty basketball game, March 9, to Sunny girls. Teachers needed last-minute heroes of banner Patrick is the star, averting student 37-19 third quarter lead."

SHIN CAPTAINS ELECTED: Varsity, Steve Dennis and Bob Bergmann; Fresh-soph, Bill Dennis and Joe Baltes.

It's sort of sad to play when you've got two spectaculars at thealtitude."

By Dick Dworkin

Closing their dual meet season 4 p.m. here Friday against Schaum in a rescheduled meet. U-High's indoor track team probably will be after their fourth win against six losses.

Trackmen journey to Park Saturday, March 25, for the first and most important of two relay meet.

COACH Elmer Busch gives his squad a good chance of winning the Class C division for schools under 100 enrolled at the relays, which will be televised over WFLD, channel 32.

Six Private and Independent School League schools will compete in the first annual University High Invitational relays 4 p.m. Friday, March 31 at the U. of C. Fieldhouse.

Walther Lutheran, Illiana Chris­ti and Luther North, top three teams in Invitational record, should provide plenty of competition for the Maroons.

ABUNDANCE and talent and depth should be an asset to the thighs in both meets.

Against Dunbar and Engleswood here March 1, U-Highers were dumped. Varsity score was U-High, 15, Dunbar, 42. Fresh-soph squad fared a bit better, with U-High, 28, Dunbar, 41.

Several Maroons turned in personal bests and two broke school records in the indoor mile, a new decade mark in the indoor mile, clocking a 4:42.2. Bill Haas broke his record, too, in the "rough"-runner mile, 4:56.5, as many weeks, 18 feet, 8 inches, to shatter the broadjump mark by 7 inches.

Runners Face Schurz, Then Two Relays

By Dick Dworkin

Closing their dual meet season 4 p.m. here Friday against Schaum in a rescheduled meet. U-High’s indoor track team probably will be after their fourth win against six losses.

Trackmen journey to Park Saturday, March 25, for the first and most important of two relay meet.

COACH Elmer Busch gives his squad a good chance of winning the Class C division for schools under 100 enrolled at the relays, which will be televised over WFLD, channel 32.

Six Private and Independent School League schools will compete in the first annual University High Invitational relays 4 p.m. Friday, March 31 at the U. of C. Fieldhouse.

Walther Lutheran, Illiana Chris­ti and Luther North, top three teams in Invitational record, should provide plenty of competition for the Maroons.

ABUNDANCE and talent and depth should be an asset to the thighs in both meets.

Against Dunbar and Engleswood here March 1, U-Highers were dumped. Varsity score was U-High, 15, Dunbar, 42. Fresh-soph squad fared a bit better, with U-High, 28, Dunbar, 41.

Several Maroons turned in personal bests and two broke school records in the indoor mile, a new decade mark in the indoor mile, clocking a 4:42.2. Bill Haas broke his record, too, in the "rough"-runner mile, 4:56.5, as many weeks, 18 feet, 8 inches, to shatter the broadjump mark by 7 inches.
Hair Reflects Prom Magic

IF SHE LOOKS like she’s just seen Santa Claus, it’s because any senior girl can believe in the magic of prom night. Boys will be boys, but on prom night, girls can be goddesses. In fact, although long hair will still be popular this spring, the ultrashort goddess look — short, curly hair and bronze makeup — will have arrived from Paris. From hairdos will be soft and simple, cascading down the back or cut goddess-style.

Every girl, however, should carefully consult her hairdresser to decide on the cut best for her face, as Nancy Selk discovered when she visited the Elizabeth Gordon salon, 1620 East Fifty-third street. The Belle Cut was selected for Nancy, full in front and short in back, it is suited for both casual and formal affairs. To keep such hairdos attractive and easy to manage, avoid excessive hairspray, advises Elizabeth Gordon’s experts, who accomplished this creation with a pair of scissors, scotch tape, a setting gel and a great deal of know-how.

U-HIGHERS RESIST TREND

Colors Invade Men’s Formal Wear

By Dan Pollock

Colors at proms this spring will be evident in boys’ as well as girls’ formal wear. Boys no longer are asking only for the traditional black and white tuxedos; they favor the new color outfits, according to sources at tuxedo rental firms around the city.

“Teenagers always want to be different,” explains Mr. Russel Hecht of Sono and Sons, 158 North State street. “Now they are breaking away from the conservative formalwear.”

But the Color tuxedo trend may not be influencing U-highbbers. Mr. Ray Leathers, a salesman at Gignis formalwear, 831 East Forty-seventh street, reports that U-High boys renting from the store, for any away from the store, and stick to black or white.

Tuxes in these traditional colors usually are worn with black pants, with a satin stripe down the side. The Brocade, solid color and Batik tuxes are now the most popular, according to Mr. Leathers. The Brocade jacket features brocade lapels, collar and stripes down the sides of the pants.

Mr. FRED BUTLER, manager of the Gignis store at 234 East Seventeenth-first street, described the Brocade pattern as “unidentified palm leaves in high temper.”

Mr. Butler explained that some boys consider the Brocade “too flashy” to wear.

The Batik tuxedo comes in red, blue or burgundy; it is worn with black pants. The jacket, according to Mr. John Landrette, a salesman at the Gignis store at 255 West Fourteenth place, has a shadowing of “cross between paisley and floral patterns.”

Mr. Butler reports that the Batik has been popular on the South Side.

Solid and pastel colors have been favorite formalwear among the boys. Mr. Gerry Mikitsa of the Sono’s store at 211 West Sixty-third street, explains that new colors are appearing all the time.

Mr. Mikitsa and Mr. Greg Cerserly, publicity and public relations director at Gignis reports that the popular colors are pastel blue, orchid, mint green and blue, yellow, powder blue, and even a dull gold. As for bow ties, currently “in” is the Butterfly, an especially wide tie.

The Vest also has become popular. It may be used in place of the vest and one or cummerbund in wavy colors.

By Rachel Csaposy and Kate Geitzels

Soft and feminine gowns will sweep across the dance floor at spring proms this year.

According to Mrs. L. Zimmerman, 19th department store, 211 North Sixty-third street, the more popular styles this year are expected to include the floral, A-line, empire and tent looks.

“THERE IS NOT much difference in style from last year;” Mrs. Zimmerman asserts. “The floral has taken over. It is very flattering and has a good line.”

Mrs. Zimmerman says that college girls like the floral style more while high school girls go for A-line and empire styles.

Photos by Starnier

The dresses will come in soft pastels such as lime green, pink and simple white. The float dresses will have point-display tops over taffeta. These softly-styled dresses will have high necks. Some of the empire gowns will be designed to have embroidered lace tops and chiffon bottoms.

Most of the A-lines will be made out of linens while the tent look will come in silks, cotton twills and chiffon.

Though the bountiful gowns of the ’50s and early ’60s no longer will be seen, sheer materials still will make dramatic, flowing entrances possible for prom-going girls with fashionable ideas.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 15, 1967—PAGE FIVE
Boys’ Styles Change As Interests Do
By John Block
After years of little interest, American high school boys have finally become fashion conscious. For this reason their fashions are constantly changing where, a decade ago, a blue-jeans or khakis-and-sports-shirt outfit could be expected to serve faithfully without question.

Pink has become a favorite in boys’ shirts. Solid pants, although still “in,” are not as popular as they were last year. Checked, striped and even patterned trousers have been seen, especially around Old Town.

ACCORDING to salesmen from two men’s clothing stores frequented by U-Highers, the College and Sta-Prest looks are bigger than ever. Salesmen at Specter’s, 2324 East Seventy-first street, and Cohn and Stern, 1018 East Fifty-fifth street, also find the Mod look becoming popular.

Sta-Prest is a material which keeps its crease without regular ironing. Collegeate pants have cuffs, and Mod pants contain thick belt loops for a wide belt.

IN SHIRTS, the most popular button-down is “The Gant.” The Henley shirt seems to be losing favor.

Salesmen from Specter’s contend that lightweight V-necks have replaced crews as the favorite sweater. Paisley ties and rep (striped) ties are selling, but not as much as the club tie.

Eleven Latin Students Going To District Contest Friday
Eleven U-High Latin students will participate in the Chicago district Latin contest Friday at Jones Commercial high school.

By years, they are: First, David Rohrlich, Valerie Leopold, Ghislaine Menguy; second, Brian Leo­pold, Victoria Northcott, John Lowe; third, Ray Finkel, Mary Scran­ton, Carl Becker; fourth, Barry Finkel and Jane Taylor.

Alternates are Laurey Hirsch, first year; Jackie Friedman; second; and Steve Lewontin, third.

Contestants who receive a “super­ior” rating will go on to the state Latin contest April 29 at Mon­mouth college.

Girls Will Dress Light, Bright
Colorful, cheery spring will bring with it bright colors and fabrics for school.

Mrs. Lucille Nussbaum, owner of Lucille’s dress shop, 1507 East Thirty-third street, says pink, orange and lilac will be the big colors this spring. Prints are madder than ever, especially in 3-piece suits with skirts.

Shifts with bloomers to match will be seen, as well as the ever­present culottes, now legal under U-High’s revised dress code.

The new code also allows for skirts 4 inches above the knee, so breezy but discrete miniskirts can be expected around U-High more often this spring.

Wash ‘n wear and drip dry fabrics will ease the workload of busy U-High girls and their mothers.

Denim will make a return in the shape of A-line skirts, hiphugger pants and Bermuda’s after school.

New Materials, Pastel Colors

Even Shoes Going Mod
By Norman Altman and Mitch Pravatiner

Fashion influence of the “mod” look will be evident in the shoes U-Highers wear this spring, according to Mr. Mark Sentury, salesman at Carson Pirie Scott and Co.

Even gym shoes are now being made with the square toe. Gym shoes are being complemented in popularity, however, by sneakers and deck shoes, made by U.S. Rubber, with flat soles. Of brushed denim, these shoes come in sage green and faded blue and are typical of the light pastel shoes now available, Mr. Sentury said.

Also NEW in sneakers is the “grubble,” a light blue and white shoe with a flat sole, for both girls and boys. The grubble originated in Southern California and is purposely manufactured to look tattered and torn, according to Mr. Sentury.

In the way of sandals, boys will be found wearing rubber soles with a “sling back” arrangement of straps around the ankle, Mr. Sentury asserted. New for girls are open-back Italian sandals with long slender straps, in a variety of colors including red, blue, turquoise and the lighter browns.

Loafers increasingly are being worn as dress shoes, according to Mrs. Betty Concklin of Marshall Field and Co. Girls are using mod Standard 2¼ inch high heels are now completely cut and even 2-inch heels are rare, having been replaced by lower heels, Mrs. Concklin said.

Before You-Wontonally Wound Your New Spring Wardrobe, See Us...
Give your sparkling spring outfits a re­view and preserve their freshness and beauty for months by letting Max Brook Cleaners do an exquisite cleaning and press­ing job! Perfectly pressed pleats and sharply creased slacks add up to a perfect spring with zing!

Max Brook Cleaners
1174 East 55th Street
FA 4-3500
and 1013-15 East 61st Street
MI 3-7447

Girls Will Dress Light, Bright
Colorful, cheery spring will bring with it bright colors and fabrics for school.

Mrs. Lucille Nussbaum, owner of Lucille’s dress shop, 1507 East Thirty-third street, says pink, orange and lilac will be the big colors this spring. Prints are madder than ever, especially in 3-piece suits with skirts.

Shifts with bloomers to match will be seen, as well as the ever­present culottes, now legal under U-High’s revised dress code.

The new code also allows for skirts 4 inches above the knee, so breezy but discrete miniskirts can be expected around U-High more often this spring.

Wash ‘n wear and drip dry fabrics will ease the workload of busy U-High girls and their mothers.

Denim will make a return in the shape of A-line skirts, hiphugger pants and Bermuda’s after school.

New Materials, Pastel Colors

Even Shoes Going Mod
By Norman Altman and Mitch Pravatiner
Fashion influence of the “mod” look will be evident in the shoes U-Highers wear this spring, according to Mr. Mark Sentury, salesman at Carson Pirie Scott and Co.

Even gym shoes are now being made with the square toe. Gym shoes are being complemented in popularity, however, by sneakers and deck shoes, made by U.S. Rubber, with flat soles. Of brushed denim, these shoes come in sage green and faded blue and are typical of the light pastel shoes now available, Mr. Sentury said.

Also NEW in sneakers is the “grubble,” a light blue and white shoe with a flat sole, for both girls and boys. The grubble originated in Southern California and is purposely manufactured to look tattered and torn, according to Mr. Sentury.

In the way of sandals, boys will be found wearing rubber soles with a “sling back” arrangement of straps around the ankle, Mr. Sentury asserted. New for girls are open-back Italian sandals with long slender straps, in a variety of colors including red, blue, turquoise and the lighter browns.

Loafers increasingly are being worn as dress shoes, according to Mrs. Betty Concklin of Marshall Field and Co. Girls are using mod Standard 2¼ inch high heels are now completely cut and even 2-inch heels are rare, having been replaced by lower heels, Mrs. Concklin said.

Before You-Fataly Wound Your New Spring Wardrobe, See Us...
Give your sparkling spring outfits a re­view and preserve their freshness and beauty for months by letting Max Brook Cleaners do an exquisite cleaning and press­ing job! Perfectly pressed pleats and sharply creased slacks add up to a perfect spring with zing!

Max Brook Cleaners
1174 East 55th Street
FA 4-3500
and 1013-15 East 61st Street
MI 3-7447

Easter Is Here... And so is a supply of top-quality cards at...
THE JEFFERY CARD AND GIFT SHOP
1940 East 71st
493-5665

SPRING BRINGS SHOWERS (photos from left to right) but Murphy’s is all pre­pared for them by bar white royal water­proof coat with transparent inner and metal wrist straps. Designers, David and Jane Dagenais. LOOKING over blooming flowers which will be popular this spring, Betty Dagenais holds an umbrella, in white and bright orange among­boy’s cardigan.

AS FOR BOYS, wing tips are popular dress shoes as well as “black cherry” (semi - wingtip), and grained leather as opposed to high gloss smooth shoes.

Ankle length, pigskin tie shoes are a new trend in casual wear, Mrs. Concklin added. According to Mr. Joe Devine of Sam Devine and sons, 1460 East Eighty-seventh street, buckles, open backs and loafers in suede are coming in.

Complete Variety of I Foods
Including: Party Foods
International Foods
Gourmet Foods
Co-Op Super Market
In the Hyde Park Shopping Center
55th and Lake Park
NO. 7-1444

GET INTO THE SWING OF THINGS
With swinging earrings to go with your swinging spring fashions. Whether your ears are pierced or not, SUPREME JEWELERS has the largest selection in town.

Supreme Jewelers
1452 East 53rd Street
FA 4-9609

PAGE SIX—WEDNESDAY, MARCH 15, 1967
BEAUTIFUL LONG HAIR of Fanchon Weiss, left, and bangs of Wendy Holland, were derived, not from Mother Nature but beauty shops. The additions to the girls' own locks are secured with a headband.

"FORGET IT!" was Margot Webster's conclusion after she tediously applied false fingernails and found the results weren't worth the effort.

False Hair, Eyelashes, Nails Enhance Beauty of 'Fakes'

By Laury Hirsch

U-High girls are a bunch of "fakes"! Like women all over the world, they have quietly been making use of false hair, false eyelashes, false nails, false hair color and numerous other deceptions in order to keep up with the current vogue fashion trend, "The Natural Look."

Senior Fanchon Weiss' "secret" haircut one day and mid-back-length hair the next. All she has to do for the long-haired effect is attach her oriental hair "fall" over her own hair with a headband.

IT CAME AS a shock to U-Highers when Fanchon first walked into school with her fall from the Pierre Andre shop about three months ago. But now her friends seem to almost accept it as "natural."

Junior Wendy Holland uses a different aid for day-to-day hairdo switches. Wendy's false bangs enable her to wear short Saxon haircuts and a fringe. "I feel different when I wear them because people see me differently," says Wendy of her false bangs.

FALSE EYELASHES are more common on the beauty front and not at all new. Sue Hecht is one of several U-High girls who wear long, thick eyelashes of real hair or mink to create a more wide-eyed, dressy look.

Sue claims, however, that she didn't get her eyelashes for cosmetic reasons. "I got them as a joke," she insists.

JUNIOR Margot Webster tried to lengthen her fingernails by attaching false nails to her own, but, she reports, "After spending hours putting them on, they turned out looking a mess." Not sold on the "fake" idea yet, Margot exclaims, "What a waste! I like my own nails better."

PICTURES TAKEN

with our film are always decently exposed.

Model Camera

1342 East 55th Street
493-9259

Gals Look Twice

At the guys who get their haircuts at the...

University Barber Shop

1453 East 57th Street
MU 4-3661

If you are a junior or a junior petite, size 1-3-5-7-9-11, make Shelly's an East 87th Street headquarters for your spring and summer wardrobe. Remember, we carry Villager, too.

Shelly's

1704 East 87th Street
721-0505

For After-School Fun . . .

Start with coordinates to match your mood, and be ready for anything. SPRING SUITS like a pow'n'-blue, with hip-stopper, and short coat, top. THE PARTIES, the hip-stopper mini, slacks to go, and slacks to go, high and high above the knees, in solid prints or sensing shirts and jackets, these and more. 4-6-8.

SHOULD BE

For you at...

Lucille's

1507 East 53rd Street
MI 3-9898

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 15, 1967—PAGE SEVEN
If a “cop” sends you to court make sure it’s Harper Court! There you’ll find a delightful variety of items from antique harps to shark’s teeth. There are two dozen shops stocked full of the unusual and practical and the fascinating.

Wearing a knit summer shift, Sue Hecht admires a striped bonded knit in red, white, and blue from FABYAR. Sue found a large selection of fabrics, sewing notions, patterns and yarn there. Phone: 363-2349.

Making a selection from the large stock of paints at ART DIRECTIONS, Steve Pitts picks the perfect color for his project. ART DIRECTIONS features art supplies in all mediums and styles and picture framing. Phone: HY 3-6138.

ABOVE: Mark Reed helps Abigail select a toy at THE CAGE. This Harper Court pet shop features dog grooming and a wide line of pet supplies. Phone: PL 2-4012.

BELOW: Bobbie Green picks out a navy suit with yellow piping for her little sister from TOTVILLE. This shop features all clothes for children. Phone: 667-8250.

Balancing a potted plant on her head, Joan Atlas sits in the midst of a jungle of greenery at PLANTS ALIVE. This shop features plants of all varieties. Phone: 667-2036.

Above: The simple flowing lines of these lamps from FENSIN LAMP AND SHADE SPECIALISTS have modern beauty in lighting. This lamp store features fixtures in all styles, modern to antique. Phone: 324-7722.

Below: Perfecting his strum and chords, Bill Hollander strums a banjo from THE FRET SHOP, where he finds many instruments and musical pieces to fit all tastes. Phone: NO 7-1060.

Sue Calero prepares for a “wild” spring vacation with large bead earrings and necklace, from STICKS AND STONES. She carries a wooden Indian spear. Phone: 324-7266.
Bikinis Coming—Reduce!

By Lisa Heiserman

U-High girls had better start reducing, because the shapely, teeny-weeny bikini is going to be in style again this summer, according to Mr. Albert, Levin of Albert’s clothing store in the Hyde Park shopping center.

For the modest type, “they’re making cute coverup shifts to go with the suits,” adds Mr. Levin, “so you don’t have to worry. No crazy stuff this year. Tams, the visel and surfer suits are out.”

Next door, at Cohn and Stern’s store for men and boys, Mr. Cohn informs that, “the surfer look will prevail only with more variety in materials and styles.”

“The legs of the trunks will be slightly longer this year,” he says. “They will have either elastic or string tie waists. Solids with stripes, denim trunks and all-over stripes are being sold as surfer britches. Crew, V and mock turtle-neck short-sleeved pullover tops will be worn over the trunks.”

From Paint
To Parties
To Pizza . . .

SPRING BRINGS all kinds of fun. Come along with these U-Highers and see! ALONG WITH warm weather of April and May comes traditional spring cleaning. A. T. Anderson, right, instructs Peter Kovler in the fine points of paint mixing and implements. ANDERSON’S HARDWARE carries a full line of spring cleaning equipment. Phone HY 3-3338.

PLANNING FOR a celebration of spring vacation, Harriet Epstein, David Shapiro, and Peter Kovler look over the fine selection of fruit, snacks, and other goodies from MR. G’S, where good foods for any occasion come from.

Phone: 363-2175. HARRIET, DAVID, and Danica Hurley take a break from finals. They enjoy lots for little at NICKY’S PIZZA. Phone: FA 4-5340.

Paint, Parties, or Pizza
You’ll find it all at 53-Kimbark
Shopping Plaza

Why Should A Teen-Ager Be Interested In Life Insurance?

Because he has his whole life in front of him. Parents can create an estate for their children to provide money for college or a nest egg for a start in life. Paid-up life insurance can be given by parents as a graduation gift. Remember, life insurance costs less when the insured is young. And life insurance can guarantee money for the completion of a child’s education if anything should happen to the parents.

Langford Sproggin

New York Life Insurance Company
Life Member Million Dollar Round Table
Insurance Estate Planning
Educational Planning
11 East Adams Street, Chicago, Illinois, 60603
(312) 427-4710

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 15, 1967—PAGE NINE
In Spring—A Young Man’s Fancy Turns To Woodworth’s . . .

What finer place to purchase a gift card for your sweetheart? Woodworth’s is a virtual emporium with its extensive line of gift items, children’s books, school supplies, gift wrap, books, paperbacks, records, and office equipment. Stop in and browse one of these fine stores. We’re at your service.

Woodworth’s Book Store
1311 East 57th Street
DO 3-4801 (Books)
DO 3-4800 (Stationery)

Jewelry Goes Wild in ’67

By Edith Schremmel

“I don’t believe it! Do you mean to stand there and tell me that people really wear those things?”

After browsing around a large downtown jewelry store with aisle upon aisle of offbeat earrings, tremendous necklaces, and colorful bracelets on display, an indignant matron put this question to a young cashier.

THE SKEPTICAL woman had every right to her question, because “wild” is the word for jewelry in ’67. Fashion experts say the bigger, brighter and bolder the jewelry is, the better.

Watch out for the bangle boom! Balls and geometric figures of all sorts will be attached to a long chain, usually gold. The colors of the baubles often will be gaudy, with hot pinks, yellows, greens, and sometimes the traditional gold or pearl ball being seen.

Materials used for earrings today often are wilder than their colors. Lucite, dyne, cotton pique and plastic are only a few of a wide variety.

DYNEL is a straight-haired fiber that looks like a tassel when joined together. Groups of these tassels in various shades create a way-out effect. Though the earrings appear quite large, they are, in fact, lightweight.

Bracelets in paper mache are broad, with color combinations also far from tame. THE WORD for watches is “man-sized,” and the rule of “the bigger the better” fits perfectly. Watchbands are wide, with patterns ranging from paisley to polka dots.

“Yes, ma’am,” replied the cashier. “Women really do wear these things.”

For A Bright St. Patrick’s Day...

Try the greens from our Vegetable and Fruit Department.

Harper Square Food Mart
1613 East 55th Street
643-3300

EXHAUSTED, Mike rests while Gloria tries on boots from the SHOE CORRAL, made especially for walking . . . or running. Phone: 422-9011.

Purchased by agents from B.U.L.L. who want an incriminating tape recording, our heroine, most-popular singer Gloria Rogers and Mike Steere, duck into the BOOK NOOK where an agent to find out what a secret agent would do. Phone: MI 2-1011.

A (Sp)eye-ful Romp Through The Hyde Park Shopping Center

The Skeptical woman had this question to a young cashier.

Published semimonthly by the journalism students of University of Chicago high school, 535 East 59th Street, Chicago, Ill. Subscription, 35 per year; single copies, 10 cents.

Ad by Delia Pitts and Jackie Thomas, photos by Mike Harvey and Carl Becker

PAGE TEN—WEDNESDAY, MARCH 15, 1967
Miniskirts and Mod Patterns
Signal Clothing Revolution

By Joel Rapha and Raphael Pollock

Old Town may be one of Chicago’s oldest neighborhoods, but the fashion ideas which spring from it are new and exciting.

Old Town got its start after the Great Fire of 1871, which virtually destroyed Chicago’s Near North Side. Undaunted, the residents of the neighborhood rebuilt, including their plans. This interest in the arts was echoed when professional people began to move into the hy-de- decayed area in the 1960s, refurbishing homes and drawing a market for quality goods.

The town of Old Town had become one of the city’s major entertainment areas, with curiosity shops, polls, candy stores, antique shops, general stores, go-go joints, a wax museum, the cream parlors, furniture stores and book centers drawing a crowd overflowing the sidewalks into Wells street.

The decor of Old Town lives up to its name: old. Piper’s Alley is an example, with its gas lamps and old-fashioned window shutters. Old photographs and decorations adorn the walls of its quaint shops.

Equally as strange as the decor of Old Town are the names of the city’s clothing styles popular with the visitors who make Wells street a teenybooper fashion parade route. “Shop pipe,” “bell bottom” and “poor boy” are among the styles girls can be counted on to buy.

THE "BELL BOTTOM." a slack takes the shape of a bell below the knee and is reminiscent of sailor suits of days gone by. “Shop pipe,” rather than taping below the knees, continue straight down to create a loose fit. The “poor boy,” a knit sweater, has long or short sleeves, a crew neck and wide ribbing. Miniskirts, self-defining, are among the most popular styles sold, and among the most publicized.

BOYS’ CLOTHING has taken on a new look, too. Patitseys, plaid, stripe, drool, op art and polka dota are just some of the patterns seen on outfits around Old Town and throughout Chicago. Three-inch belts are making the scene and wide wale corduroys continue to gain in popularity. The new “plastic look” in coats and dresses and hats.

The “rough leather look” is another favorite. John Brown’s Leather shop in Piper’s Alley sells leatherwear ranging from capes to shoes to belts. Some of Proprietor John Brown’s famous customers are music groups such as the Lev- in’ Spoonful, the Beatles and the Mamas and the Papas. Mama Cass formerly resided in Old Town.

OLD TOWN shops don’t cater just to the entertainment and “camp” markets. According to Maury Davis, proprietor of Davis Congress Shop Inc., 130 North Wells street, a men’s clothing shop specializing in mod fashions, “We sell to everybody: the country club set, theatrical personalities like Phyllis Diller and Smothers Brothers, even to older people who want to look young. Most of our business, however, comes from teenagers.”

Adds Mrs. Madge Gross, owner of Madge’s, 1809 North Wells street, “We do business with people from all over the city, suburbs and even out of town.”
HELP STAMP OUT WINTER!

Wash Pants! by H.L.S.

* Levi
1000's of pairs in stock
Jeans from $5.00

Stay Press Shirts from $7.00

Walking Shirts!
Solids, Plaids,
Shapes from $5.00

Sizes from 28-42!
Our fine staff of wash pant specialists is ready to serve you.

Ban Snow!

Spring is Here! (Kind of)

A sample from our fine selection of traditional melanines by Riviére.
$3.99 to $9.99

Fine belts by Canterbury
$4.00

Cohn & Stern, INC.
TOWN & CAMPUS SHOP
55TH & LAKE PARK
In the Highland Shopping Center
Toll 732-8100

#1 for Spring
Spring & Summer

The Marina Coat—
A light-weight double-breasted delegation made especially for us — your colors of French Blue or Gold $50.00

Other handsome sport jackets in a variety of colours and patterns
FROM $35.00

Spring for Spring
New colors & patterns
FROM $29

Add a strap to handle to your gown over jacket
$22.99
from Bar
close your del
Red Women's
$19.95
(5 colors)